1. Introduction

Be the Band's safeguarding policy describes the management systems and arrangements in place to create and maintain a safe learning environment for all students who are taught by Be the Band staff. It describes the actions that should be taken if concerns are disclosed or identified. As well as being available to view on our website, a copy of this safeguarding Policy is available on request. This policy and supporting procedures apply to all teaching and support staff who come into contact with young people that we teach.

Safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children is everyone's responsibility. All professionals working with children at Be the Band should ensure they work in a child centred way and always consider the best interests of the child. All staff are advised to uphold an attitude regarding safeguarding of 'it could happen here'.

Be the Band's Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL) is David Tshulak and deputy (DDSL) is Sarah McCabe. The DSL coordinates child protection issues and liaises with our host organisations and external agencies (e.g. Social Care, the LSCB and Ofsted).

1.1 Description of Be the Band

Be the Band is a progressive and inclusive independent music service that teaches young people across the country how to play an instrument in a band setting. Our sessions teach teamwork, communication, and self-confidence through the magic of rock music. Be the Band provides an immersive musical experience using innovative and accessible technology to inspire young people to form their own rock band. We bring these workshops to schools, youth clubs, and day centres, as well as hosting groups in our London studio. Each session is run by a professional musician with extensive teaching experience and a passion for education.

Policy Statement

Be the Band is committed to maintaining a safe learning environment and protection for all students regardless of age, disability, sex, race, religious belief, ethnicity or sexual orientation or identity. We recognise that a more personalised or contextualised approach may be required for more vulnerable children, victims of abuse and some SEND children.

Be the Band seeks to establish and maintain an ethos where students feel secure, and are encouraged to talk freely to any of our facilitators in the host organisation if they are worried or concerned about something.

We are committed to building a 'culture of safety' within our organisation in which the children in our care are protected from abuse, harm, and radicalisation. We have a culture of openness and honesty which allows us to be reflective about our practice and recognise that, however good we are, we can always improve.

1.2 Aims

The aims of this policy and procedures were created to adhere to the elements of safeguarding outlined below:

1.2.1 Prevention

Create a culture of safeguarding at Be the Band that contributes to a positive atmosphere in the host organisations we serve, through high quality teaching and awareness of pastoral support to students we teach.

1.2.2 Protection

All staff are aware and follow agreed procedures set by both Be the Band and individual host organisations. Our staff are appropriately recruited, trained, and supported to respond appropriately and sensitively to child protection concerns.

1.2.3 Support

Provide support for students, and awareness of support networks in host organisations for children who may have been subject to abuse or neglect, and to support Be the Band staff who may respond to those concerns.

1.3 Objectives

We will achieve our safeguarding aims using the following actions:

- Working alongside each host organisations' individual safeguarding policy, reporting any concerns to the designated safeguarding team at that host organisation, as well as Be the Band's own internal designated safeguarding lead,
- Knowing our students well, particularly when we are made aware of vulnerable children, being alert to their needs and any safeguarding issues at host organisation, home or in the community,
- Ensuring we practise safe recruitment, checking the suitability of adults who have unsupervised contact with children and supervising others who are temporarily in host organisation but not undertaking 'regulated activity',
- Ensuring all members of staff receive safeguarding training and have read, understood, and follow the relevant sections of, the DfE statutory guidance 'Keeping Children Safe in Education',
- All staff can recognise the signs and symptoms of abuse and know the procedures for reporting concerns and abuse of host organisations they are working,
- Maintain confidential records, stored securely, and shared appropriately with other professionals,
- Ensure our policy and procedures are regularly updated and submit to a regular external audit.

1.4 Review

Our policy will be reviewed annually by the CEO

2. Statutory guidance

The DfE statutory guidance 'Keeping Children Safe in Education' is the first point of reference for child protection and child welfare issues in host organisations. This policy has been devised in accordance with the following legislation and guidance:

- Working Together to Safeguard Children: A guide to inter-agency working to safeguard and promote the welfare of children, DfE (2018)
- Keeping Children Safe in Education, DfE (2023)
- Sexual Violence and Sexual Harassment between children in schools and colleges DfE, (2021)
- Guidance for Safer Working Practices for Adults who work with Children and Young People in Education Settings (October 2015)
- What to do if you're worried a child is being abused, DfE (March 2015)
- Information Sharing: Advice for practitioners, DfE (March 2015)
- The Prevent Duty: Departmental advice for host organisations and childcare providers, DfE (2015)
- Mandatory Reporting of Female Genital Mutilation – procedural information, Home Office (October 2015)
- The Domestic Abuse Act (2021)

3. Definition of safeguarding

Safeguarding is not just about protecting children from deliberate harm. It includes a wide range of issues relating to pupil's welfare, health, and safety (Inspecting safeguarding in early years, education and skills, Ofsted, September 2019). Safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children is defined as:

- Protecting children from maltreatment.
- Preventing impairment of children's mental or physical health or development,
- Ensuring that children grow up in circumstances consistent with the provision of safe and effective care,
- Taking action to enable all children to have the best outcomes.

Child protection is an aspect of safeguarding but is focused on how we respond to prevent children suffering, or being likely to suffer, significant harm. Safeguarding covers more than just child protection and host organisations are charged with ensuring that the child is looked at holistically and at the centre of decision-making.

4. Roles and Responsibilities

It is the responsibility of EVERY member of staff at Be the Band to ensure that they carry out the requirements of this policy and always work in a way that safeguards and promotes the welfare of all children. This includes the responsibility to provide a safe environment in which children can learn.

4.1 Senior Leadership Team

The Senior Leadership Team is accountable for ensuring the effectiveness of this policy and compliance with it. They have responsibility to ensure staff are supported to understand and are effective in adhering to their role and responsibilities under Part one of KCSIE 2023 to ensure that safeguarding underpins all aspects of process and policy.

4.2 Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL)

The DSL is appointed by the CEO and takes lead responsibility for the day-to-day oversight of safeguarding and child protection, including online safety and understanding what filtering and monitoring systems host organisations have in place.

Be the Band has one deputy DSL who is trained to the same standard as the DSL. During term time, the DSL or deputy are always available during host organisation hours for staff to discuss any safeguarding concerns that occur within any host organisation where Be the Band staff are present. The DSL and Deputy will be introduced to new facilitators upon their induction, and all staff are reminded formally of the correct people to contact for safeguarding concerns termly via online or in person training.

The DSL and deputy will undergo appropriate and specific training to provide them with the knowledge and skills required to carry out their role. The DSL's training will be updated formally every two years but will have refresher training at regular intervals, at least annually, to keep up to date with any developments relevant to their role.

Duties of DSL

- Ensure that all staff undergo safeguarding and child protection training, including online safety which, amongst other things, includes an understanding of filtering and monitoring which is in place at host organisations,
- Liaise with DSL at individual host organisations and ensure that all cases of suspected abuse reported by Be the Band staff are referred appropriately to local statutory children's services agencies, and support is given to staff who make referrals,
- Refer individual incidents or issues to the Police in accordance with NPCC guidance 'When to call the Police',
- Liaise with host organisation staff, including pastoral support, SENDCOs on matters of safety and safeguarding,
- Act as a source of support, advice and expertise to Be the Band staff on matters relating to online and digital safety, and Prevent,
- Be aware of the process for making referrals to Children's Social Care and for statutory assessments under the Children Act 1989, especially section 17 (children in need) and section 47 (a child suffering, or likely to suffer, significant harm) that may follow a referral, along with the role they might be expected to play in such assessments.
- Understand the unique risks associated with online safety and how to keep children safe online at host organisation,
- Recognise the additional risks that children with SEND face from online bullying, grooming and radicalisation,
- Keep detailed, accurate and secure written records of concerns and referrals and understanding relevant data protection legislation and regulations.

4.3 Local Authority Designated Officer (LADO)

As a national company Be the Band do not maintain a list of relevant LADO for each host organisation that we work with. Be the Band teaching staff should familiarise themselves with the host organisation's safeguarding policy including contact details of LADO to be referred to should the need arise to make contact.

4.4 All staff

All staff have responsibility to provide a safe environment for children and work in a child centred way, always considering the best interests of the child.

All staff will read and understand the following guidance and policy:

- 'Keeping Children Safe in Education Information for All host organisation and College staff' (Part one) (or Annex A, where appropriate),
- DfE guidance 'What to do if you're worried a child is being abused',
- Code of Conduct for staff within Be the Band's 'Staff Handbook'.
- Be the Band's annually reviewed safeguarding Policy and the procedures to follow if they have concerns about a child regardless of the presumed seriousness of the case, both from Be the Band and the policies in place for the host organisations where they are placed.

By attending appropriate training and having read the recommended guidance and host organisation policy, all staff are expected to be aware of the following safeguarding actions:

- How to raise a concern about a child's welfare, by speaking to the DSL (or deputy) at the host organisation and Be the Band in order to agree on a course of action,
- Staff should always refer to the DSL or deputy, however, in exceptional circumstances where the DSL or deputy is not available, appropriate action should not be delayed and members of staff must speak to a member of the host organisation Leadership Team and/or take advice from children's social care. In these circumstances, any action taken should be shared with the DSL (or deputy) as soon as practically possible,

- If there is a risk of immediate serious harm to a child, a member of staff should call the police on 999, and any member of staff can make a referral to Children's Social Care, but should ensure they inform the DSL as soon as possible,
- Know what to look for in early identification of abuse and neglect to be able identify cases where children may need help or protection,
- Know how to respond if a child tells them they are being abused, exploited, neglected, or otherwise at risk of harm,
- Be aware of behaviours linked to safeguarding issues that can put children at risk of harm, e.g., drug taking and or alcohol misuse, deliberately missing education, and consensual and non-consensual sharing of nude images,
- Be aware that a child experiencing mental health issues can in some cases, be an indicator that a child has suffered or is at risk of suffering abuse, neglect, or exploitation, which should be referred to the DSL or deputy,
- The process for making referrals to Children's Social Care and for statutory assessments under the Children Act 1989, especially section 17 (children in need) and section 47 (a child suffering, or likely to suffer, significant harm) that may follow a referral, along with the role they might be expected to play in such assessments.
- Understand the host organisation's safeguarding response to children who go missing from education,
- That children are at risk of abuse online as well as face to face, and that technology is a significant component in many safeguarding and wellbeing issues,
- Online abuse can be child-on-child and take the form of abusive, harassing, messages and the non-consensual sharing of indecent images.

5. Definitions of Abuse

A child may be subject to abuse or neglect by a person inflicting harm or failing to act to prevent harm. Children may be abused in a family, or in an institutional or community setting. This could be by those known to them, or, more rarely, by a stranger. They may be abused by an adult or adults or another child or children. Abuse can also take place wholly online, or technology may be used to facilitate offline abuse.

Definitions of physical, emotional, sexual abuse and neglect are found in DfE statutory guidance 'Keeping Children Safe in Education, 2022'

5.1 Physical abuse

May involve hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning, scalding, drowning, suffocating, or otherwise causing physical harm to a child. Physical harm may also be caused when a parent or carer fabricates the symptoms of, or deliberately induces illness in a child.

5.2 Sexual abuse

Involves forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, not necessarily involving a high level of violence, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening. The activities may involve physical contact, including assault by penetration (for example, rape or oral sex) or non-penetrative acts such as masturbation, kissing, rubbing, and touching outside of clothing. They may also include non-contact activities, such as involving children in looking at, or in the production of, sexual images, watching sexual activities, encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways, or grooming a child in preparation for abuse (including via the internet). Sexual abuse is not solely perpetrated by adult males, women can also commit acts of sexual abuse, as can other children.

5.3 Emotional abuse

Is the persistent emotional maltreatment of a child such as to cause severe and persistent adverse effects on the child's emotional development. It may involve conveying to children that they are worthless or unloved, inadequate, or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person. It may include not giving the child opportunities to express their views, deliberately silencing them or 'making fun' of what they say or how they communicate. It may feature age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children. These may include interactions that are beyond the child's developmental capability, as well as overprotection and limitation of exploration and learning, or preventing the child participating in normal social interaction. It may involve seeing or hearing the ill-treatment of another. It may involve serious bullying (including cyberbullying), causing children frequently to feel frightened or in danger, or the exploitation or corruption of children. Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all types of maltreatment of a child, though it may occur alone.

5.4 Neglect

Is the persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and/or psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development. Neglect may occur during pregnancy as a result of maternal substance abuse. Once a child is born, neglect may involve a parent or carer failing to:

- Provide adequate food and clothing, shelter (including exclusion from home or abandonment),
- Protect a child from physical and emotional harm or danger,
- Ensure adequate supervision (including the use of inadequate caretakers),
- Ensure access to appropriate medical care or treatment,
- Emotional unfulfillment of a child's basic emotional needs.

6. Other categories of abuse

6.1 Child-on-child abuse

All staff should be aware that children can abuse other children (often referred to as peer-on-peer abuse), and that it can happen both inside and outside of the host organisation and online. It is important that all staff recognise the indicators and signs of child-on-child abuse and know how to identify and respond to reports. All staff should be clear on the important role they have to play in preventing child-on-child abuse and should understand, that even if there are no reports in host organisation it does not mean it is not happening, it may be the case that it is just not being reported.

If staff have any concerns regarding child-on-child abuse, they should speak to their designated safeguarding lead (or deputy). It is essential that all staff understand the importance of challenging inappropriate behaviours between peers. Downplaying certain behaviours, for example dismissing sexual harassment as “just banter”, “just having a laugh”, “part of growing up” or “boys being boys” can lead to a culture of unacceptable behaviours, an unsafe environment for children and in worst case scenarios a culture that normalises abuse leading to children accepting it as normal and not coming forward to report it.

Child-on-child abuse can include, but not be limited to:

- Bullying (including cyberbullying, prejudice-based and discriminatory bullying),
- Abuse in intimate personal relationships between peers,
- Physical abuse such as hitting, kicking, shaking, biting, hair pulling, or otherwise causing physical harm (this may include an online element which facilitates, threatens and/or encourages physical abuse),
- Sexual violence, such as rape, assault by penetration and sexual assault; (this may include an online element which facilitates, threatens and/or encourages sexual violence),
- Sexual harassment, such as sexual comments, remarks, jokes, and online sexual harassment, which may be standalone or part of a broader pattern of abuse,
- Causing someone to engage in sexual activity without consent, such as forcing someone to strip, touch themselves sexually, or to engage in sexual activity with a third party,
- Consensual and non-consensual sharing of nudes and semi-nude images and or videos (also known as sexting or youth produced sexual imagery),
- Up skirting, which typically involves taking a picture under a person’s clothing without their permission, with the intention of viewing their genitals or buttocks to obtain sexual gratification, or cause the victim humiliation, distress, or alarm,
- Initiation/hazing type violence and rituals (this could include activities involving harassment, abuse or humiliation used as a way of initiating a person into a group and may also include an online element).

6.2 Sexual violence and sexual harassment between children in host organisation

All Be the Band facilitators should read Part five (KCSIE '22) alongside the Departmental of Education advice: Sexual Violence and Sexual Harassment Between Children in Schools and Colleges.

All staff should acknowledge that sexual violence and sexual harassment between children can happen at this host organisation. Sexual violence and sexual harassment can occur between two children of any age and sex and the fact children can, and sometimes do, abuse their peers in this way from primary to secondary stage and into colleges. It may exist on a continuum and may overlap. It can occur online and face to face (both physically and verbally). It can happen both inside and outside of the host organisation. It can also occur through a group of children sexually assaulting or sexually harassing a single child or group of children.

Children who are victims of sexual violence and sexual harassment will likely find the experience stressful and distressing. This will likely adversely affect their educational attainment and will be exacerbated if the alleged perpetrator(s) attend the same host organisation.

All victims should be reassured that they are being taken seriously and that they will be supported and kept safe. A victim should never be given the impression that they are creating a problem by reporting sexual violence or sexual harassment. Nor should a victim ever be made to feel ashamed for making a report. Some groups are potentially more at risk and evidence shows girls, children with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND) and LGBT children are at greater risk.

Staff must recognise that a child abusing another child may have been abused themselves, therefore, the need may be to support the alleged perpetrator. When referring to Sexual Harassment, this includes:

- Unwanted conduct of a sexual nature,
- Sexual remarks,
- Sexual taunts,
- Physical behaviour, or

- Online sexual harassment,

When referring to sexual violence, this is defined under the Sexual Offences Act 2003, described below:

6.2.1 Rape

A person (A) commits an offence of rape if: he intentionally penetrates the vagina, anus, or mouth of another person (B) with his penis, B does not consent to the penetration and A does not reasonably believe that B consents.

6.2.2 Assault by Penetration

A person (A) commits an offence if: s/he intentionally penetrates the vagina or anus of another person (B) with a part of her/his body or anything else, the penetration is sexual, B does not consent to the penetration and A does not reasonably believe that B consents.

6.2.3 Sexual Assault

A person (A) commits an offence of sexual assault if: s/he intentionally touches another person (B), the touching is sexual, B does not consent to the touching and A does not reasonably believe that B consents. (host organisations should be aware that sexual assault covers a very wide range of behaviour so a single act of kissing someone without consent or touching someone's bottom/breasts/genitalia without consent, can still constitute sexual assault.)

6.2.4 Causing someone to engage in sexual activity without consent

A person (A) commits an offence if: s/he intentionally causes another person (B) to engage in an activity, the activity is sexual, B does not consent to engaging in the activity, and A does not reasonably believe that B consents. This could include forcing someone to strip, touch themselves sexually, or to engage in sexual activity with a third party.

6.3 Child sexual exploitation (CSE)

CSE is a form of child sexual abuse. Sexual abuse may involve physical contact, including assault by penetration (for example, rape or oral sex) or non-penetrative acts such as masturbation, kissing, rubbing, and touching outside clothing. It may include non-contact activities, such as involving children in the production of sexual images, forcing children to look at sexual images or watch sexual activities, encouraging children to behave in sexually inappropriate ways or grooming a child in preparation for abuse including via the internet.

Further information about CSE including definitions and indicators is included in KCSIE '22 Annex B. The statutory definition of Child Sexual Exploitation (CSE) can be found in the guidance document Child sexual exploitation: Definition and a guide for practitioners (DfE 2017).

6.4 Child criminal exploitation (CCE)

Some specific forms of CCE can include children being forced or manipulated into transporting drugs or money through county lines, working in cannabis factories, shoplifting, or pickpocketing. They can also be forced or manipulated into committing vehicle crime or threatening/committing serious violence to others.

Children can become trapped by this type of exploitation as perpetrators can threaten victims (and their families) with violence or entrap and coerce them into debt. They may be coerced into carrying weapons such as knives or begin to carry a knife for a sense of protection from harm from others. As children involved in criminal exploitation often commit crimes themselves, their vulnerability as victims is not always recognised by adults and professionals, (particularly older children), and they are not treated as victims despite the harm they have experienced. They may still have been criminally exploited even if the activity appears to be something they have agreed or consented to.

It is important to note that the experience of girls who are criminally exploited can be very different to that of boys. The indicators may not be the same, however professionals should be aware that girls are at risk of criminal exploitation too. It is also important to note that both boys and girls being criminally exploited may be at higher risk of sexual exploitation.

Further information about CCE including definitions and indicators is included in KCSIE '22 Annex B.

6.5 County lines

County lines is a term used to describe gangs and organised criminal networks involved in exporting illegal drugs (primarily crack cocaine and heroin) into one or more importing areas [within the UK], using dedicated mobile phone lines or other forms of “deal line”.

Exploitation is an integral part of the county lines offending model with children and vulnerable adults exploited to move, and store, drugs, and money. Offenders will often use coercion, intimidation, violence (including sexual violence) and weapons to ensure compliance of victims.

Children can easily become trapped by this type of exploitation as county lines gangs create drug debts and can threaten serious violence and kidnap towards victims (and their families) if they attempt to leave the county lines network.

Further information about County lines including definitions and indicators is included in KCSIE '22 Annex B

6.6 Domestic violence

Anyone can be a victim of domestic abuse, regardless of sexual identity, age, ethnicity, socio-economic status, sexuality or background and domestic abuse can take place inside or outside of the home. Types of domestic abuse include intimate partner violence, abuse by family members, teenage relationship abuse and child/adolescent to parent violence and abuse. The definition of Domestic Abuse applies to children if they see or hear, or experience the effects of, the abuse; and they are related to the abusive person.

The Domestic Abuse Act 2021 (Part 1) defines domestic abuse as any of the following behaviours, either as a pattern of behaviour, or as a single incident, between two people over the age of 16, who are 'personally connected' to each other:

- (a) physical or sexual abuse,
- (b) violent or threatening behaviour,
- (c) controlling or coercive behaviour,
- (d) economic abuse (adverse effect of the victim to acquire, use or maintain money or other property; or obtain goods or services); and
- (e) psychological, emotional, or other abuse.

'Personally connected' is defined as where persons are or have been married to each other, or civil partners, or have agreed to marry or become civil partners. Also, if the two people have been in an intimate relationship with each other, have shared parental responsibility for the same child, or they are relatives.

6.7 Honour based abuse

So-called 'honour-based' abuse (HBA) encompasses crimes which have been committed to protect or defend the honour of the family and/or the community, including female genital mutilation (FGM), forced marriage, and practices such as breast ironing. All forms of so called HBA are abuse (regardless of the motivation) and should be handled and escalated as such. Where staff are concerned that a child might be at risk of HBA, they must inform the host organisation Designated Safeguarding Lead and Be the Band DSL as a matter of urgency.

6.8 Female genital mutilation

Female genital mutilation refers to procedures that intentionally alter or cause injury to the female genital organs for non-medical reasons. The practice is illegal in the UK. FGM typically takes place between birth and around 15 years old; however, it is believed that in most cases, this happens between the ages of 5 and 8.

Risk factors for FGM include:

- Low level of integration into UK society,
- Mother or a sister who has undergone FGM,
- Girls who are withdrawn from PSHE,
- Visiting female elder from the country of origin,
- Being taken on a long holiday to the country of origin,
- Talk about a 'special' procedure to become a woman.

Whilst all staff should speak to the designated safeguarding lead (or deputy) about any concerns about female genital mutilation (FGM), there is a specific legal duty on facilitators. If any facilitator, in the course of their work in the profession, discovers that an act of FGM appears to have been carried out on a girl under the age of 18, the facilitator must report this to the police.

6.9 Forced marriage

Forcing a person into a marriage is a crime in England and Wales. A forced marriage is one entered into without the full and free consent of one or both parties and where violence, threats or any other form of coercion is used to cause a person to enter into a marriage. Threats can be physical or emotional and psychological. A lack of full and free consent can be where a person does not consent or where they cannot consent (if they have learning disabilities, for example).

Nevertheless, some perpetrators use perceived cultural practices to coerce a person into marriage. In addition, since February 2023 it has also been a crime to carry out any conduct whose purpose is to cause a child to marry before their eighteenth birthday, even if violence threats or another form of coercion are not used. schools and colleges can play an important role in safeguarding children from forced marriage and it is important that all staff are aware of their responsibilities to pass on any concerns.

7. Children Missing Education

Children being absent from education for prolonged periods and/or on repeated occasions can act as a vital warning sign to vital safeguarding issues including neglect, child sexual and child criminal exploitation – particularly county lines. Early intervention is essential to identify any underlying safeguarding risk. It is important that when staff become aware of pupils that are persistently absent that they raise the issue with the host organisation's DSL and Be the Band DSL and follow the host organisations' safeguarding procedures.

8. Context

Staff should be aware of contextual safeguarding at the host organisation they are teaching by being aware of the issues highlighted in the host organisation safeguarding policy and in discussion with the DSL or SLT on induction. Contextual Safeguarding is an approach to understanding, and responding to, young people's experiences of significant harm beyond their families. Safeguarding incidents and behaviours can be associated with factors outside the host organisation and can occur between children outside of these environments. Parents and carers have little influence over these contexts, and young people's experiences of extra-familial abuse can undermine parent-child relationships. Staff, but especially the DSL (and deputy) should consider whether children are at risk of abuse, sexual abuse, serious youth violence, county lines or sexual or criminal exploitation in situations outside their families and should understand how to handle reports of sexual violence and harassment between children, both on and outside host organisation premises, in line with the DfE guidance 'Sexual Violence and sexual harassment between children in schools and colleges'.

9. SEND

Be the Band acknowledges that children with special educational needs (SEN) and disabilities, or certain health conditions, can face additional safeguarding challenges as they may have an impaired capacity to resist or avoid abuse. They may have speech, language, and communication needs, which may make it difficult to tell others what is happening, may be abused more than their abled peers, may find it difficult to express their views, needs and opinions.

Members of staff are encouraged to be aware that children with SEN and disabilities can be disproportionately impacted by safeguarding concerns such as bullying. All members of staff will be encouraged to appropriately explore possible indicators of abuse such as behaviour, mood change, or injuries and not to assume that they are related to the child's disability and be aware that children with SEN and disabilities may not always outwardly display indicators of abuse.

Children and young people with special educational needs and disabilities can face additional safeguarding challenges because:

- There may be assumptions that indicators of possible abuse such as behaviour, mood, and injury relate to the child's disability without further exploration
- Children with SEN and disabilities can be disproportionately impacted by things like bullying without outwardly showing any signs; and
- Difficulties may arise in overcoming communication barriers.

Be the Band staff should ensure that they are vigilant of any pupils within their setting who might need more support to be kept safe or to keep themselves safe.

10. Counter Terrorism and Prevent Act 2015 (The Prevent Duty)

As part of the Counter Terrorism and Security Act 2015, host organisations have a duty to 'prevent people being drawn into terrorism'. This has become known as the 'Prevent Duty'.

Where staff are concerned that children and young people are developing extremist views or show signs of becoming radicalised, they should discuss this with the Designated Safeguarding Lead. Staff should be alert to changes in children's behaviour, which could indicate that they may be in need of help or protection. Staff should use their judgement in identifying children who might be at risk of radicalisation and act proportionately.

DSLs should receive training about the Prevent Duty and tackling extremism and be able to support staff with any concerns they may have. The DSL will consider the level of risk and decide to which agency this concern should be referred. This could include Channel guidance, the government's programme for identifying and supporting individuals at risk of being drawn into terrorism.

The Department for Education also has a dedicated telephone helpline, 020 7340 7264, that staff and governors can call to raise concerns about extremism with respect to a pupil. In an emergency, call 999 or the confidential anti-terrorist hotline on 0800 789 321.

Further information about the Prevent Duty and to Prevent Radicalisation including definitions and indicators is included in KCSIE '22 Annex B.

11. Recognising types of abuse and significant harm

Children Act 1989 introduced the concept of significant harm as the threshold that justifies compulsory intervention in family life in the best interests of children. It gives local authorities a duty to make enquiries to decide whether they should take action to safeguard or promote the welfare of a child who is suffering, or likely to suffer, significant harm. This includes where there are concerns about maltreatment, including all forms of abuse and neglect, or other so-called honour-based abuse (including Female Genital Mutilation and Forced Marriage), and extra-familial threats like radicalisation and sexual exploitation. All staff should consider whether children are at risk of abuse or exploitation.

Abuse, neglect, and safeguarding issues are rarely standalone events and cannot be covered by one definition or one label alone. In most cases, multiple issues will overlap with one another, therefore staff should always be vigilant and always raise any concerns with their DSL or deputy.

All staff should be aware of contextual safeguarding as safeguarding incidents and behaviours can be associated with factors outside the host organisation and can occur between children outside of these environments. Staff, but especially the DSL (and deputy) should consider whether children are at risk of abuse, sexual abuse, serious youth violence, county lines or sexual or criminal exploitation in situations outside their families and should understand how to handle reports of sexual violence and harassment between children, both on and outside host organisation premises, in line with the DfE guidance 'Sexual Violence and sexual harassment between children in schools and colleges'.

12. Mental health awareness

Be the Band staff should be aware that mental health problems can, in some cases, be an indicator that a child has suffered or is at risk of suffering abuse, neglect or exploitation. Only appropriately trained professionals should attempt to make a diagnosis of a mental health problem. Education staff, however, are well placed to observe children day-to-day and identify those whose behaviour suggests that they may be experiencing a mental health problem or be at risk of developing one.

Where children have suffered abuse and neglect, or other potentially traumatic adverse childhood experiences, this can have a lasting impact throughout childhood, adolescence and into adulthood. It is key that staff are aware of how these children's experiences can impact on their mental health, behaviour, and education.

Mental health problems can, in some cases, be an indicator that a child has suffered or is at risk of suffering abuse, neglect, exploitation or other potentially traumatic adverse childhood experiences that can leave them vulnerable to further harm. Be the Band staff are not expected or trained to diagnose mental health conditions or issues but may notice behaviours that may be of concern for which they should report concerns. Where staff have a mental health concern about a child that may also be a safeguarding concern, immediate action should be taken in reporting this concern to the designated safeguarding lead or a deputy.

Further information about Mental Health including definitions and indicators is included in KCSIE '22 Annex B and in relation to the host organisation's approach to peer on peer / child on child abuse can be found in Appendix A of this policy.

13. Dealing with disclosures

13.1 Concerns from staff

Sometimes referrals are made in response to a single incident such as an injury or report of abuse, but some concerns accumulate over time and are evidenced by building up a picture of harm. If Be the Band staff have concerns about a child, they should raise these with the DSL at the host organisation, or in their absence the deputy DSL. The concern should also be raised with the Be the Band DSL who will contact the host organisation and establish whether steps have been taken to:

- Manage support for the child internally via the host organisation's own pastoral processes,
- Seek consent from the family for an Early Help assessment, or
- Make a referral for statutory services.

Staff are required to report any concerns by following the child protection procedures for the host organisation they are working, submitting the concern in writing and then follow it up by talking to the DSL and Be the Band DSL.

All information about the suspected abuse or disclosure, or concern about radicalisation, will be recorded on Be the Band's 'Logging a concern' form as soon as possible after the event.

The record should include:

- Date of the disclosure, or the incident, or the observation causing concern
- Date and time at which the record was made
- Name of the child involved
- A clear and comprehensive summary of the concern/ a factual report of what happened.
- If recording a disclosure, you must use the child's own words

The record will be sent to Be the Band's DSL who will liaise with the host organisation and decide on the most appropriate course of action.

A copy of the 'Logging a concern' form should also be given to the relevant host organisation's DSL. If a staff member feels that their genuine concerns are not being addressed, either by the host organisation DSL or Be the Band DSL, they may refer their concerns to the children's services directly, or seek advice from the NSPCC whistleblowing advice line on 0800 028 0285, email: help@nspcc.org.uk.

Where there is a risk of significant harm to a child the Be the Band DSL or deputy will work with the host organisation to refer the situation to Social Care by phone and follow up within 48 hours. The local authority should decide on next actions within one working day of a referral and let the referrer know the outcome. The DSL will follow up if this does not happen. If the child's situation does not improve the DSL will press for reconsideration. If any adult has concerns for the immediate safety of a child, they should ring the police on 999.

In situations of alleged abuse involving staff members (including supply staff, volunteers, and contractors), see guidance in the Managing Allegations and Whistleblowing sections of this policy, and the child protection policy of the host organisation where staff are based.

13.2 Disclosures by a child

Where there is a safeguarding concern disclosed by a child, staff will listen to the student's wishes and feelings and take them into account when determining next actions. In order to support a child who discloses abuse, members of staff will ensure the following actions:

- Believe what the child says and not jump to conclusions,
- Stay calm,
- Listen carefully to the words the child uses,
- Not ask leading questions or put words in a child's mouth,
- Reassure the child they are right to tell,
- Tell the child what you are going to do and why,
- Speak to the Designated Safeguarding Lead or deputy at the host organisation,
- Speak to Be the Band DSL or Deputy DSL
- Complete Be the Band 'logging a concern' form and the required procedure for the host organisation,
- Include a clear and comprehensive summary of the concern, details of how the concern was followed up and resolved, a note of any action taken, decisions reached and the outcome,
- Follow up the referral with the DSL to make sure action has been taken.

Members of staff speaking to a child making a disclosure will NOT:

- Agree to keep secrets or confidences (they will explain that they may need to pass information to other professionals to help keep the child or other children safe),
- Investigate or interrogate,
- Make promises about outcomes,
- Panic or attach blame,
- Take photographs of an injury,
- Do nothing, assuming that someone else will take the necessary action.

13.3 Early help

Staff have a responsibility to identify children who may benefit from early help and understand their role in it. This includes:

- Identifying emerging problems,
- Providing help for children,
- Promoting children's welfare and preventing concerns from escalating,
- Liaising with the host organisation DSL, and flagging to the Be the Band DSL
- Sharing information with other professionals to support early identification whether this is when problems are first emerging or where a child is already known to Children's Social Care,
- Be aware that children are at risk of abuse online as well as face to face and that technology is a significant component in many safeguarding and wellbeing issues,
- Understand that online abuse can be child-on-child and take the form of abusive, harassing, messages and the non-consensual sharing of indecent images.

14. Safeguarding procedures

14.1 Consideration by DSL

Following any information raising a concern, the Be the Band designated safeguarding lead, or deputy in DSLs absence will consider:

- Any urgent medical needs of the child,
- If appropriate actions/considerations are being taken by the host organisation DSL ie: whether the child is subject to a child protection plan,
- Discussing the matter with other agencies involved with the family,
- Consulting with appropriate professionals in the area where the host organisation is located or known to the child e.g. Early Help Service Manager, Multi-Agency Screening Team (MAST), medical professional working with the child and/or Safeguarding Advisor for Education,
- The child's wishes.

14.2 Decisions by DSL

After consideration, and in consultation with the host organisation DSL, a decision will be made as to whether it is necessary:

- To talk to parents, unless to do so may place a child at risk of significant harm, impede any police investigation and/or place the member of staff or others at risk,
- Whether to make a child protection referral to the local authority because a child is suffering or is likely to suffer significant harm and if this needs to be undertaken immediately,
- If a concern arises outside the UK, report to local police for information to be passed to authorities in the country where the child is resident through Interpol procedures.

OR

- Not to make a referral at this stage,
- If further monitoring is necessary,
- If it would be appropriate to undertake an assessment (e.g., Early Help assessment) and/or make a referral to the Early Intervention Panel and/or to other services.

14.3 Action following a child protection referral

All information and actions taken, including the reasons for any decisions made, will be fully Documented. If the DSL is of the view that concerns are not being responded to appropriately then these concerns will be escalated until the DSL feels that some resolution has been achieved. All staff have the right to make a referral to the local authority or police directly if, for whatever reason, there are difficulties following the agreed protocol, for example, they are the only adult on the host organisation premises at the time and have concerns about sending a child home. Be the Band will work with the host organisation to ensure the designated safeguarding lead or other appropriate member of staff will:

- Make regular contact with the social worker involved to stay informed,
- Wherever possible, contribute to the strategy discussion,
- Provide a report for, attend, and contribute to any subsequent child protection conference,
- If the child or children are made the subject of a child protection plan, contribute to the child protection plan, and attend core group meetings and review conferences,
- Where possible, share all reports with parents prior to meetings,
- Where in disagreement with a decision made by Multi-Agency Screening Team (MAST) e.g., not to apply child protection procedures or not to convene a child protection conference, follow the guidance in the Local Authority Safeguarding Children Procedures on resolving multi agency professional disagreements and escalations,
- Where a child subject to a child protection plan moves from the host organisation or goes missing, host organisation will immediately inform the Multi-Agency Screening Team (MAST).

15. Online safety

Online safety is categorised into four areas of risk: content, contact, conduct and commerce). Be the Band recognises that the use of technology presents challenges and risks to children and adults both inside and outside of host organisation. Online safety can be broadly categorised into four areas of risk:

- Content, being exposed to illegal, inappropriate or harmful material
- Contact, being subjected to harmful online interaction with other users
- Conduct, personal online behaviour that increases the likelihood of, or causes, harm
- Commerce, risks such as online gambling, inappropriate advertising, phishing and or financial scams

All staff should be aware that technology is a significant component in many safeguarding and wellbeing issues and report any concerns they have about children's online safety in the same way they would any other concern. Children are at risk of abuse and other risks online as well as face to face. In many cases abuse and other risks will take place concurrently both online and offline.

Children can also abuse other children online, this can take the form of abusive, harassing, and misogynistic/misandrist messages, the non-consensual sharing of indecent images, especially around chat groups, and the sharing of abusive images and pornography, to those who do not want to receive such content.

Many children use mobile and smart technology with unlimited and unrestricted access to the internet via mobile phone networks. This access means some children, whilst at host organisations, sexually harass, bully, share indecent images consensually or non-consensually, and view and share pornography and other harmful content. Staff should be aware of these issues and how this is managed in host organisations in which they are working. Schools and colleges should recognise that sexual violence and sexual harassment occurring online (either in isolation or in connection with face-to-face incidents) can introduce a number of complex factors. Amongst other things, this can include widespread abuse or harm across a number of social media platforms that leads to repeat victimisation.

15.1 Grooming behaviour

Grooming is when someone builds an emotional connection with a child to gain their trust for the purposes of sexual abuse, sexual exploitation or trafficking. Children and vulnerable adults can be groomed online or face-to-face, by a stranger or by someone they know, for example a family member, friend or professional. Groomers may be male or female of any age. It can be difficult to tell if a child is being groomed as the signs are not always obvious and may be hidden. Older children might behave in a way that seems to be "normal" teenage behaviour, masking underlying problems. A child is unlikely to know they've been groomed. They might be worried or confused and less likely to speak to an adult they trust.

Some of the signs you might see include:

- Being very secretive about how they're spending their time, including when online
- Having an older boyfriend or girlfriend
- Having money or new things like clothes and mobile phones that they can't or won't explain
- Underage drinking or drug taking
- Spending more or less time online or on their devices
- Being upset, withdrawn, or distressed
- Sexualised behaviour, language, or an understanding of sex that's not appropriate for their age
- Spending more time away from home or going missing for periods of time.

Grooming is a criminal offence and occurs where an adult engages in sexual communications that relates to sexual activity and communications for the purpose of obtaining sexual gratification (Serious Crime Act 2015, part 67).

15.2 Sharing nudes

Sharing nudes or semi-nudes is a term used to describe when persons under 18 send or post nude or semi-nude images, videos, or livestreams online. It's important that any incident involving children and nudes is considered a potential safeguarding concern.

An incident should always result in a child protection referral if:

- The incident involves an adult.
- There is reason to believe that a child or young person has been coerced, blackmailed, or groomed, or there are concerns about their capacity to consent (e.g., learning disability).
- The image depicts sexual acts not appropriate for the young person's development stage or are violent.
- The images depict sexual acts with any child under 13.
- Reason to believe that the child is in immediate risk of harm due to the sharing of the image, e.g., presenting as suicidal or self-harming.

15.3 Filtering and monitoring

KCSIE 2023 makes it clear that all staff should be aware of the roles and responsibilities in relation to filtering and monitoring. Be the Band are not responsible for those systems but need to be aware of the systems that are in place in the host organisations they are working in and how host organisation devices and networks are monitored. Staff working in host organisations should familiarise themselves with the host organisations safeguarding policy which should document which systems are in place.

15.4 Training

Appropriate online safety training should be included in the safeguarding and child protection training which should be regularly updated including updates via email, e-bulletins and staff meetings as required, to ensure that staff have the relevant skills and knowledge to safeguarding children effectively, particularly in relation to emerging online threats and new online harms arising.

16. When to call the police

All Be the Band staff follow the advice by NPCC 'When to call the police' which covers incidents on host organisation premises where students have potentially committed a crime. It provides guidance on what schools and colleges should bear in mind when considering contacting the police and aims to support host organisations to make defensible decisions when considering whether to involve the police.

This advice covers the following situations:

- Assault
- Criminal damage
- Cyber crime
- Drugs
- Harassment
- Sexual offences

- Theft
- Weapons

17. Safety and security

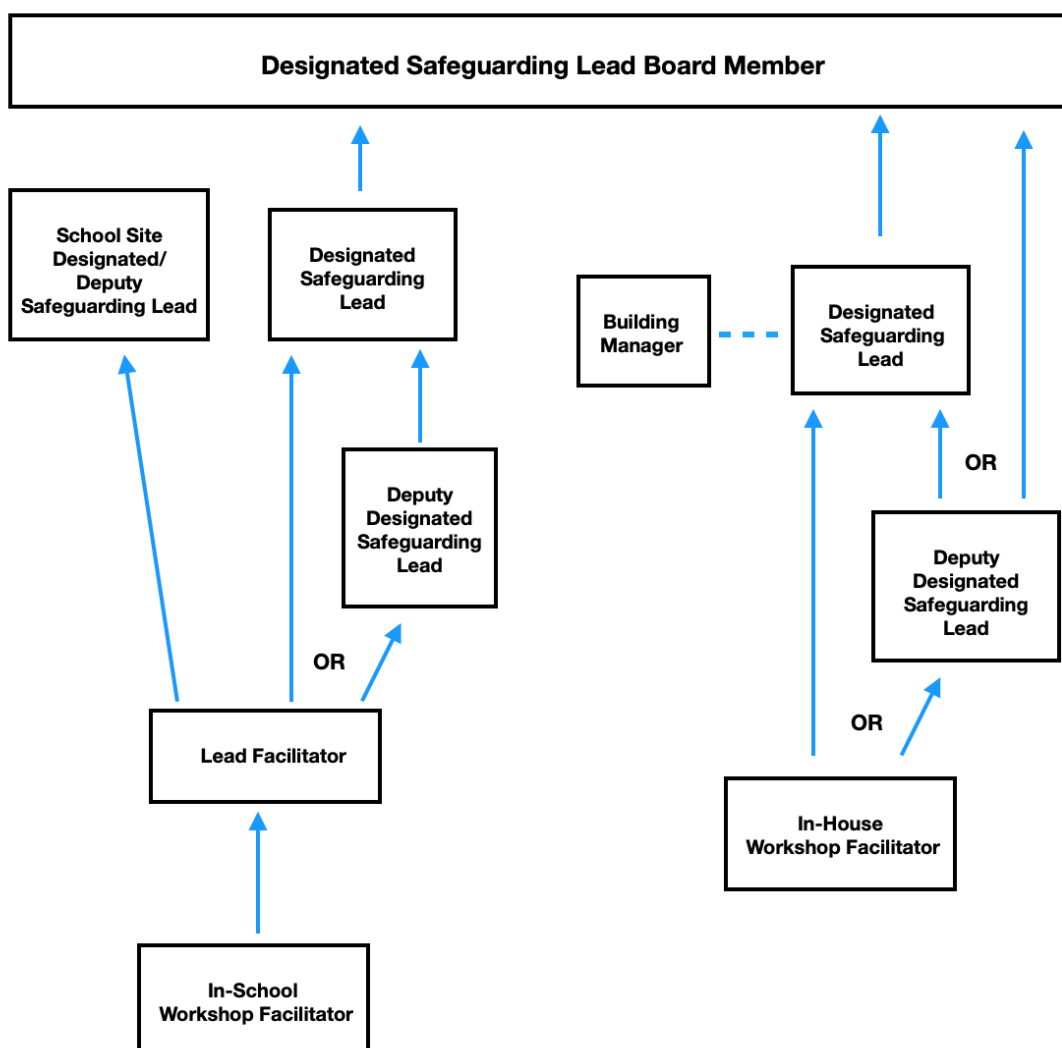

All Be the Band staff will ensure that they are familiar with the host organisations health and safety policies and procedures, which include identifying, reporting, and dealing with accidents, hazards, and faulty equipment. They must take all reasonable steps to ensure staff, children and others are not exposed to risks and are aware of the host organisations' risk assessments process.

17.1 Escalation flowchart

Reporting a Concern

18. Record keeping, retention and storage

Staff will record any welfare concerns about a child on the appropriate records of the host organisation and additionally on Be the Band's 'Logging a Concern' form. Records must be completed as soon as possible after the incident/event. Staff must be aware that their records might have to be used as evidence in court and must therefore be mindful of the need to distinguish fact from opinion. Staff must not attempt to investigate a situation themselves.

Records should be made in writing and include all concerns, discussions and decisions made, and the reasons for those decisions. Information will be kept confidential and stored securely. Records will include:

- A clear and comprehensive summary of the concern,
- Details of how the concern was followed up and resolved,
- A note of any action taken, decisions reached and the outcome.

Child protection records are stored in private folders on our secure server and only shared on a 'need to know' basis. They will be kept for seven years after they reach the host organisation leaving age.

A record will be made of all incidents where students have expressed racist, homophobic, extremist, or radical views which will be monitored at a senior level. The director of the host organisation in question will be kept informed of any significant issues by the DSL. Records of concerns about adults are kept in their personnel file at least until they reach their normal retirement age or for 10 years – whichever is longer. Records are kept for the same amount of time regardless of whether the allegations were unfounded. Records of malicious allegations are destroyed immediately.

19. Training and induction

All staff will undertake an appropriate level of safeguarding and child protection training (including online safety) at induction. All staff will undertake as a minimum:

- Online and in person child protection training on induction and every two years,
- Annual training on KCSIE and a knowledge check to ensure staff understand their responsibilities,
- Regular safeguarding and child protection refresher training as part of the CPD programme every half-term.

Part 1 and Annex B of KCSIE 2022 should be read and followed by all members of the teaching staff and the management team.

Be the Band staff who do not directly work with children, will read Annex A of KCSIE 2022: Safeguarding information for host organisation and college staff (a condensed Part one).

Be the Band's Senior Leadership Team with responsibility for safeguarding will receive safeguarding training from a strategic perspective which will be updated regularly, to be disseminated to the rest of the leadership team.

The CEO will ensure the DSL and the Deputy DSL attend the required safeguarding training when they first take up the role which will provide them with the knowledge and skills required to carry out the role effectively. The training will be updated every two years. In addition to formal training, their knowledge and skills will be updated at least annually, to keep up with any developments relevant to their role.

20. Safer recruitment

Be the Band has a culture of safe recruitment with procedures that help deter, reject, or identify people who might abuse or be a risk to the safety or welfare of children. The Recruitment Team will act reasonably in making decisions about the suitability of prospective employees, supply staff, volunteers and contractors based on checks and evidence including criminal record checks (DBS checks), barred list checks and, in the case of teaching staff, prohibition checks together with references and interview information.

The Senior Leadership Team are responsible for ensuring that Be the Band follows safe recruitment processes outlined within 'Keeping Children Safe in Education' Keeping children safe in education - GOV.UK (www.gov.uk) and maintenance of the Single Central Record; and an application, vetting and recruitment process which places safeguarding at its centre, regardless of employee role.

We will ensure that we have processes in place for continuous vigilance, maintaining an environment that deters and prevents abuse and challenges inappropriate behaviour so that staff feel comfortable to discuss matters both within and outside of the workplace which may have implications for the safeguarding of children.

The Recruitment Team will ensure that at least one person taking part in any candidate interview panel has undertaken safer recruitment training and that the training is updated as necessary.

21. Code of Conduct

Be the Band have high expectations of professionalism and care from staff and expect them to behave appropriately in host organisations at all times by:

- Always putting the safety and welfare of the children first and adhering to the individual host organisations and Be the Band's safeguarding policies and procedures.
- Always having DBS and photo ID available on request.
- Always using polite and appropriate language, when talking to children, colleagues, or host organisation staff.
- Never using a personal device, such as a mobile phone, in the presence of children.
- Always using appropriate adult/staff toilets within a host organisation.

Use of tablets, mobile phones and cameras

Photographs will only be taken of children with their parents' permission. Only cameras or tablets belonging to Be the Band will be used to take photographs of children. To protect staff and children, personal mobile phones can only be used by staff when children are not present.

Recording Media

Recording videos of children performing in lessons or in a concert to be published on our website is a positive part of Be the Band culture, and a great way of showing the children (and parents) how much they have progressed. However, it can be a very sensitive issue, both legally and emotionally, and the following must be adhered to by all employees:

- Consent must be obtained by the child's parents before any filming can take place
- This consent must be recorded digitally in our system.
- All recording must be done on approved Be the Band equipment provided.
- Media may only be published through approved Be the Band channels
- Only Be the Band media taken from a public source eg. the Be the Band website can be shared by staff
- After staff finish uploading, processing or otherwise using the media, it should be deleted from the device within 24 hours.

21.1 One-to-one lessons

Be the Band teaches band lessons where children will largely be taught in a group. When one-to-one lessons are necessary, staff will take steps to ensure you are seen and heard by others in the host organisation if working alone with a student, ie; by keeping the door open. When teaching one-to-one staff should be aware that students are particularly vulnerable to misinterpretations or inappropriate behaviour. Staff should be even more vigilant to keep professional boundaries, as you would with a whole class.

Staff who are asked to work in inappropriate locations or conditions should raise a concern with the host organisation and Be the Band DSL.

21.2 Boundaries and grooming behaviours

Staff should remember that it is possible for a student, another facilitator or parent to misinterpret your actions, however well intentioned. You should ask yourself are my actions fair, reasonable, warranted, proportionate, measured, safe and applied equally? Teaching staff should consider the following:

- Take steps to prevent any student from accessing any of your personal accounts on social networking sites,
- Treat everyone with respect,
- Report any unusual gifts you receive and ensure they are not of significant value or intention
- Remember that an allegation could be made against you.

DO NOT

- Develop extensive communication with a student directly outside of lesson time,
- Reveal personal information to the student, exchange mobile numbers, or email addresses,
- Intimidate, threaten, coerce, or undermine anyone,
- Engage in any sexual activity whether consensual or not with a student under 18 years of age with whom you are working,
- Play games or have physical contact that is inappropriate,
- Make suggestive remarks or gestures, tell jokes of a sexual nature, or engage in inappropriate verbal banter,
- Give gifts to students only as part of an agreed reward system,
- Use your position to gain access to information for your own advantage or another's detriment.

Occasionally staff may encounter students who display attention seeking behaviour or claim to be attracted to them. In such circumstances staff should:

- Deal with those situations sensitively and appropriately,
- Ensure that their behaviour is not misinterpreted,
- Inform the DSL at host organisation and Be the Band of the behaviour.

21.3 Position of trust

All adults who work with children and young people at Be the Band hold a position of trust. All staff should ensure that:

- All relationships are conducted appropriately to the age, gender and understanding of the children and young people involved, personal conduct and use of language does not invite any speculation as to the appropriateness of any relationship with a child or young person.

22. Managing allegations

If a member of Be the Band staff is made aware of an allegation or concern about inappropriate treatment of children by a member of staff at a host organisation (including support staff, volunteers, and contractors), they should report this to the Director at the host organisation. The allegation should also be logged as a concern to Be the Band DSL.

Depending on the level of concern/nature of the allegation Be the Band will need to report this to the LADO.

22.1 Allegation against Be the Band staff

If a high-level concern allegation is made against Be the Band staff by a host organisation, parent or other party, the allegation will be recorded on a Logging a Concern form and an internal investigation will commence.

Additionally:

- The allegation will be reported to the Local Authority Designated Officer (LADO),
- The LADO will advise if other agencies (e.g., police) should be informed,
- Any telephone reports to the LADO will be followed up in writing within 48 hours,

- Following advice from the LADO, it may be necessary to suspend and/or remove the member of staff from the host organisation pending the result of a full investigation of the allegation.
- Be the Band will work with the LADO and the host organisation to ensure all parties are confident with how the investigation has been handled.

22.2 Referral to DBS

The role of the DBS is to help prevent unsuitable people from working with children and vulnerable adults. Be the Band has a legal duty to make a referral to the DBS where they remove an individual from a regulated activity (or would have removed an individual had they not left) and they believe the individual has:

- Engaged in relevant conduct in relation to children and/or adults,
- Satisfied the harm test in relation to children and/or vulnerable adults, or
- Has received a caution or conviction for a relevant offence.

Referrals will be made as soon as possible when an individual is removed from regulated activity.

The legal duty to refer applies equally in circumstances where an individual is redeployed to another area of work that is not regulated activity, they are suspended, dismissed or when they have resigned.

23. Whistleblowing

Members of staff have an individual responsibility to bring matters of concern to the attention of senior leadership and/or relevant agencies. Although this can be difficult this is particularly important where the welfare of children may be at risk. The NSPCC runs a whistleblowing helpline which members of staff can use if they do not feel able to raise concerns regarding failures internally. Staff can call: 0800 028 0285 (8:00 AM to 8:00 PM Monday to Friday) or email: help@nspcc.org.uk.

Follow Be the Band's Whistleblowing Policy found within the staff handbook for full details of the guidance and procedures.

24. Information sharing

Safeguarding and child protection information is confidential and personal. Other than the agreed communication lines at the host organisation, it is for the DSL to decide what information needs to be shared, with whom, how and when, and whether consent needs to be gained for this process. If in any doubt, the DSL can seek advice from the local authority.

Further guidance is available in DfE document Data protection: a toolkit for host organisations (Annex 10.1), the DfE document 'Information Sharing – Guidance for Safeguarding Practitioners' and the 'Flowchart of When and How to Share Information'.

Staff should not assume a colleague, or another professional will act and share information that might be critical in keeping children safe. Fears about sharing information must not be allowed to stand in the way of the need to safeguard and promote the welfare of children.

Neither the Data Protection Act 2018 nor UK GDPR prevent, or limit, the sharing, or withholding, of information for the purposes of keeping children safe. Information which is sensitive and personal will be treated as 'special category personal data'. Legal and secure information sharing between host organisations, Children's Social Care and other agencies is essential.

Information can be shared without consent where there is good reason to do so, and that the sharing of information will enhance the safeguarding of a child, but it is not possible to gain consent, it cannot be reasonably expected that a practitioner gains consent, or if to gain consent would place a child at risk. When parents do not give permission to share information staff must consider if a child is at risk of harm, before a decision to not share information is made; when there is disparity between parent's views and those of their children, professionals must maintain focus on the child. Fears about sharing information must not be allowed to stand in the way of protecting the safety of children. As with all data sharing, appropriate organisational and technical safeguards will be in place.

Under the Data Protection Act 2018 and the UK GDPR, host organisations are permitted to withhold students' personal data where, for example, a child is in a refuge or other form of emergency accommodation and to provide the information would place a child at risk.

All staff are made aware that they cannot keep secrets and absolute confidentiality with children, and that if a child discloses abuse or gives information that suggests they may be at risk, this MUST be passed on to the DSL as soon as possible. The child should be told who their disclosure will be shared with and what will happen next.

25. Related policies
